Guest Speakers:

Citrus County Commissioner Joe Meek,
President of Citrus County Economic Development Council

&

John Siefert,
Executive Director of Citrus County Economic Development Council

For our Annual Meeting next month, we have chosen our guest speakers with a focus on the challenges of economic development in Citrus County. We are honored to have Citrus County Commissioner Joe Meek who is also President of the Citrus County Economic Development Council (EDC) and John Siefert, Executive Director of the EDC joining us for this meeting. The meeting details are summarized below. We will hold a brief business meeting covering 2010 and then introduce our main speakers.

The Citrus County Economic Development Council, Inc. (EDC) is a non-profit 501(c)(6) corporation. It was established in 1999 as a public/private partnership guided by a Board of Directors.

As a pro-active, countywide coalition of businesses, business organizations, local educational organizations together with local and state governments, the EDC works to strengthen and diversify Citrus County's economy. The EDC strives to attract new business investment and works closely with local companies to assist them with expansion and other business needs.

The mission of the EDC is to make strategic use of private and government resources and services to improve the economy, infrastructure, and quality of life in Citrus County while promoting understanding of the business community's problems and needs as well as those of government.

After their prepared remarks, we will open the meeting for questions and have an open dialogue on a variety of topics that are of interest to the residents.

We hope you will reserve Monday evening January 10, 2011 to attend the Annual Meeting and we look forward to seeing you there.
